

CONTAINERS IN RESTORATION

INDUSTRIES INSIDE THE BOX

KEEPING EMERGENCIES CONTAINED

When disaster strikes, Secure-Rite heads to the scene to provide relief storage to affected, but salvageable belongings.

Shipping containers provide temporary shelter and storage in the event that a home or building is damaged and deemed unfit for content storage.

Secure-Rite containers provide relief storage for a variety of disaster outcomes:

Environmental damage

Fire and smoke damage

Water damage

Storm damage

Why are containers ideal for restoration and clean up?

Shipping containers are the perfect solution for disaster response. They provide secure, weatherproof storage right at the property affected by fire, flood, or other catastrophic events. Using a storage container ensures that the contents are safe from further damage and not in the way of the restoration work being conducted, while still allowing the property owner and project team to conveniently access the contents as, and when, necessary. Once the property is returned to its pre-loss condition, the items inside that container can be put back in place, easily and conveniently.

Restoration companies value Secure-Rite's urgent response times, the durability and portability that make containers a safe haven for personal belongings during disaster clean-up, and the promise of a simple and smooth process from start to finish.
